

Children Learn By Discovery

... AT BEATRICE SCHOOL

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Beatrice—Their minds are tiny now, but someday all nine will know they were Nebraska's first Montessori pupils.

Thus introduced is Beatrice's "Discovery-School," newest page in an educational chapter that started in Rome more than half a century ago. The local system joined some 50 others in this country—a number that an awakening interest seems likely to multiply.

"By the end of our first week we had a dozen applications for enrollments next September," said Father Maurice Freemyer, president of the school's incorporated backers. He is also pastor of Christ Episcopal Church, but stressed that the class is non-denominational.

Both admirers of famed Dr. Maria Montessori, he and wife Mary became virtual disciples while in their previous pastorate. They became close associates of Kansas City's Madam Elizabeth Caspari, at one time a personal understudy of the Italian (and Catholic) physician-educator.

"Absorbent Mind"
"Pre-school was called by the lady 'the period of the absorbent mind,'" reflected Father Freemyer. "Basically, her methods let children learn by discovery, making full use of all their senses."

Hence, such classroom innovations as a sandpaper alphabet which permits feeling letters as well as seeing and sounding them. The senses also team in handling and counting three-dimensional "numerical rods," and playing simple tunes on small bells.

Teacher Mrs. Freemyer and assistant Geraldine Stiefvater also convey discipline through social graces and complete sentence training—and even dishwashing. These are dovetailed with such nursery school conventionals as singing, coloring and playing.

Hopes For Growth
A former college professor who has little time to help in the instruction, Father Freemyer hopes the school can become fully accredited next year and eventually expand through the third grade. The accelerated program continues into junior high in some cities.

Flourishing in Europe and Canada for years, the Montessori methods were introduced in the U.S. five decades ago but were then too strict to catch on. A network television program recently predicted a mushrooming future for their "intellectual disciplines."

Serving on the Beatrice board of directors with the priest-president are John Elliott, Jack Klumpp, Joe Goldberg, Allen Davison and Bud Pentz.

TEACHING NUMBERS ... to Gayla Gibson, standing, Jeanine Sacks and Jay Siercks.

Blast Injures Detroit Police Figure

... VICTIM REPUTED MAFIA MEMBER

Detroit (AP) — Santo (Sam) Perrone, 69-year-old reputed Mafia or Cosa Nostra member, was injured critically Sunday in a mysterious explosion in his parked car.

On the way to the hospital, police said, Perrone kept muttering "I wonder who done it. I wonder who done it."

Police said a bomb apparently had been placed in Perrone's car and set to explode when he turned the ignition key.

The blast shook an east side neighborhood. The car was shattered. Parts of it were hurled more than 100 feet. The car hood was flung to the roof of a two-story building and a door was blown over a building and into an alley, police said.

Long Record
Perrone, who has a police record covering 40 years, had entered the car alone after leaving a car washing establishment he owns, police said. Vincent Piersante, deputy chief of detectives, said Perrone apparently had left the car shortly before with an employee who parted from him and went to his own car. Piersante, a police expert on gangland activities, said he did not know why anyone would want to take Perrone's life. He said he knew of no current disputes in the Detroit underworld.

Served One Term
Perrone has been arrested

more than two dozen times, but served only one prison term—for operating liquor stills.

The most serious charge he faced was conspiracy to murder Walter P. Reuther, United Auto Workers president, in 1948. Reuther was shot from ambush at his home, and almost lost an arm from the shotgun blast.

Perrone was one of four men who were charged six years later. The 1951 case fell apart, however, and the warrants against the four were dismissed.

Two police patrolmen, Robert Reed, 32, and Thomas Heyser, 26, were driving only 50 feet away, answering a stray dog complaint, when the car exploded.

"As soon as I heard it I knew it was a bomb," Reed said. "I saw the man falling out of the car. I grabbed the radio speaker and called for an ambulance."

Witnesses
Two girls and Perrone's car wash employee, James Phillip, 67, were among the witnesses.

"I went to my car parked at the rear of the auto wash and drove out," Phillip said. "I heard the big noise and saw a bunch of black smoke. I saw the boss on the ground."

Linda Wormabacher, 21, and Sandra Lee Derry, 20, were trying to make a call from a pay telephone booth.

"There was smoke all over," Miss Derry said. "I saw the man fall out of the car to the ground. The man was moaning and bleeding and there was blood all over."

Formosan Earthquake Produces Shock, Grief

Taipei, Formosa, Monday (AP)—A pall of shock and grief hung today over the southern Formosa cities of Tainan and Chiayi where an earthquake killed 104, injured 452 and left thousands of homeless walking the littered streets in stunned silence.

Crying children and barking dogs punctuated the mournful quiet as soldiers and volunteers searched for more victims in the rubble of hundreds of homes wrecked by the initial 30-second jolt Saturday night.

Officials found some consolation in the fact that the violent tremors struck at 8:06 p.m. when most people were still awake. Had the quake hit later with people asleep, authorities noted, the toll would have been much higher.

Rescue crews and relief agencies worked past midnight and got an early start searching the rubble and providing food and shelter for the estimated 20,000 homeless in Tainan, Chiayi and surrounding areas.

Of the 1,758 homes that collapsed and 2,671 badly damaged, most were centered in Tainan, a city of 250,000 and the former capital of this island nation. Fires apparently started by overturned charcoal stoves destroyed 124 homes at nearby Chiayi.

Boyd spoke of "60 years of injustices" to Panama under the existing treaty, and strongly denied a statement by Secretary of the Army Cyrus Vance that 10 suspected communist agents, including one sniper, had been arrested by Panamanians after riots broke out there Jan. 9.

"My government has instructed me to deny emphatically that there was any participation by communist agents (in the riots)," Boyd said. "It is a terrible mistake if you say Castro or Khrushchev had something to do with this."

Tanganyika Army Elements Mutiny; Situation Unclear

London, Monday (AP)—Units of the Tanganyika army mutinied during the night in Dar es Salaam, capital of the East African country, British government sources reported.

Tanganyika, on Africa's east coast, is a republic and member of the British Commonwealth.

It lies immediately opposite the revolution-torn island of Zanzibar and so far has been one of the most stable of Africa's new nations.

A spokesman for the Commonwealth Office said F. S. Miles, acting British high commissioner in Dar es Salaam, reported to London that military disturbances had taken place during the night and the situation in the capital was not clear.

U.S. Right To Run Canal 'Has To End'

Washington (AP)—Panama's ambassador to the United Nations said Sunday that the United States' right to operate the Panama Canal in perpetuity must be ended and a time fixed when Panama will take over the waterway.

Aquilino Boyd said the 1903 treaty granting perpetual rights was imposed on Panama under duress and is "repugnant" and "obsolete."

Appearing on the CBS radio and television program "Face the Nation," Boyd said the United States must agree to renegotiate the treaty or diplomatic relations will not be restored.

"Cooperation"
"The situation there is going to deteriorate more and more if the United States is not going to cooperate," he said.

Boyd said Panama also wants all special American privileges in the Panama Canal Zone wiped out and indicated the zone itself must go.

"It is not right for Americans to live in the heart of Panama behind that fence," he said.

Boyd's hairline position was outlined on the eve of an Inter-American Peace Commission meeting here at 9 a.m. CST Monday with representatives of the United States and Panama.

"60 Unjust Years"
Boyd spoke of "60 years of injustices" to Panama under the existing treaty, and strongly denied a statement by Secretary of the Army Cyrus Vance that 10 suspected communist agents, including one sniper, had been arrested by Panamanians after riots broke out there Jan. 9.

"My government has instructed me to deny emphatically that there was any participation by communist agents (in the riots)," Boyd said. "It is a terrible mistake if you say Castro or Khrushchev had something to do with this."

Boyd would not set a target date for Panama to take over the canal.

The ambassador discounted proposals in Congress for the United States to try building a sea level canal through Mexico or some other Latin nation. The United States could not get the advantages elsewhere it already has, he said.

Malaysia Peace Prospects Rise

... RFK IN MANILA

Manila (AP)—U.S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and President Diosdado Macapagal said Monday prospects for an early meeting of the feuding nations in the Malaysia crisis are encouraging.

Kennedy, here on the second leg of his peacemaking tour for President Johnson, conferred with Macapagal for nearly three hours.

A statement issued afterwards said Kennedy had informed Macapagal of the results of his talks in Tokyo with Indonesian President Sukarno in the American's quest for a peaceful settlement of the Malaysia question.

Flying in from South Korea Sunday night, the brother of the late President told newsmen there was a good possibility that the Malaysia crisis can be solved.

"Some progress has been made," he said.

His talks with Macapagal, follow conferences in Tokyo with President Sukarno of Indonesia.

Not As Militant
Macapagal's opposition to the Malaysian Federation established in September has not taken the militant aspect of Indonesia's policy of confrontation.

The Philippines refused to recognize Malaysia—a nation consisting of the former British colonies of Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak and North Borneo, now Sabah—because of a Philippine claim to part of Sabah.

The Philippine leader reasserted his country's stand in a radio address shortly before Kennedy's arrival.

The Philippines, he said, seeks friendship with both the new nations of Asia and Africa and with the Western powers, especially the United States.

Universal Endeavor
"We shall regard our commitments with the Afro-Asian bloc as well as our continued close friendship with the powers in the West under the leadership of the United States as a cooperative participation in the great universal endeavor of our times to achieve solidarity in peace."

The president reiterated his support for Maphilindo, the association of Indonesia, Malaysia and the Philippines which fell apart when Malaysia was formed.

Indonesia charges that Malaysia is a British plot to encircle Indonesia and vows to crush the federation, under the leadership of Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman.

President Johnson has sent the 38-year-old attorney general here in an attempt to head off a possible shooting war between Malaysia and Indonesia.

A crowd of about 4,000 swarmed around Kennedy when he arrived in Manila, where he visited U.S. troops along the armistice line and had a 70-minute talk with President Chung Hwee Park.

He and his wife, Ethel, had difficulty getting through the crowd to the Manila airport terminal. There he held a news conference.

"Some progress has been made in the dispute over Malaysia. The main thing is for those concerned to sit down at a conference table," he said. Kennedy emphasized that the Malaysia problem is one that should be resolved by Asians.

He said that the late President Kennedy was hoping to come to the Philippines.

"Emissary of JFK"
"I feel I am coming here as his emissary as well as President Johnson's," Kennedy said.

Along the Korean armistice line, Kennedy crept into bunkers, shook hands with Korean soldiers, looked into Communist positions through telescopes and asked questions of Korean officers at snow-covered observation posts.

W. BERLINERS STARE DOWN COMMIE COPS

Berlin (AP)—Communist and West Berlin police faced each other at gunpoint at the Red wall Sunday in the most serious border incident since the Christmas holiday period.

The confrontation came as a 17-year-old East German, dousing communist gunfire, climbed the wall and got entangled in the barbed wire at the top. His foot was hit by a bullet.

West Berlin police shouted across the wall that they would shoot back unless the firing was stopped. When the East German guard complied, several West Berlin officers rushed toward the wall and helped the bleeding youngster over to the western side.

A few hours later, the official East German news agency ADN protested that the West Berlin officers had committed a "gross violation of the border."

International Trade Seminar Thursday

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

An International Trade Seminar—first ever in Nebraska—will be conducted in Omaha Thursday, Gov. Frank Morrison announced Sunday.

Purpose of the one-day conference at the Paxton Hotel is to acquaint manufacturers and suppliers throughout this area with information on all phases of international trade. Counselors will be available on such matters as new markets, shipping, packaging, insurance and financing.

International Traders
Speakers have been selected from a large field of experienced businessmen in Nebraska and other states who are engaged in, or connected with, international trade.

Morrison said Nebraska is receiving a "very small percentage" of the profits to be gained from international trade, and said it was his desire to "substantially increase this activity."

"If an item can be produced, sold or consumed in America, it has the most desirable sales potential in foreign countries," he said.

A recent survey conducted by the Nebraska Resources Division showed that 150 Nebraska firms are exporting goods to foreign markets, and an equal number indicated they are interested in foreign trade.

Speakers
Speakers for the seminar will represent firms which have entered into foreign trade, agencies and organizations which are available to help manufacturers set up an export program, and authorities on foreign markets, transportation, insurance, letters of credit and other financial matters.

Included among the speakers will be C. I. Meyer of the regional office of the Small Business Administration at Kansas City, Mo., and John Stevenson of the Commerce Department regional office at Kansas City.

Sponsors of the seminar are Consumers Public Power District, Kansas Nebraska Natural Gas Co., Midwest Foreign Trade Association, the Nebraska Resources Division, Nebraska State Chamber of Commerce, Associated Industries of Nebraska, Northern Natural Gas Co., Omaha Chamber of Commerce, Small Business Administration, Commerce Department and the John Hancock Insurance Co.

Beermann Endorses Goldwater

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Rep. Ralph Beermann said it is time for the nation to be given a choice between a conservative Republican presidential nominee and a "liberal" Democratic President.

The choice will be provided if Republicans nominate Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Beermann said.

"I certainly hope Sen. Goldwater gets the nomination," the First District Republican congressman told The Star by telephone.

Wants To Help
"I want to help him in any way that I can. I will not file as a delegate, but I hope to go to the convention and help."

"It is time to have this good choice," Beermann said. President

Johnson's program "may be more liberal than that of 1961, 1962 and 1963."

The President "cannot do all these things (he has proposed) without spending more money. If President Johnson pushes all the 1961-63 programs plus these additional ones, I'd say there is a pretty good chance of a Republican majority in Congress" next session.

Beermann said he would like to serve in the House of Representatives under a Republican majority.

No Announcement
The two-term congressman said he is not ready to make any announcement as to his 1964 political plans, but under questioning, he allowed that "I see no reason why I wouldn't run again."

Schuetz, he said, has been "wonderful," and the state party organization is "extremely fortunate" to have his leadership.

Conservative candidates "deserve" more seats in the halls of Congress, the Dakota City Republican said. Even with a minority, "we had a pretty definite effect" in the last session, "helping to reduce the national budget by about $7.2 billion."

"Financial Integrity"
It is time conservatives composed the majority in Congress, Beermann said. "To help provide financial integrity."

Beermann said he has not yet decided whether he will name a new state representative to replace Jack Schuetz of Lincoln, who is resigning to become Republican state executive secretary.

Schuetz, he said, has been "wonderful," and the state party organization is "extremely fortunate" to have his leadership.

Modern Keen Timer Has A 'Cherry Time'

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

The Keen Time Club is 20 years old this year, but teen-agers don't have a "keen time" anymore at club dances.

The club's popularity hasn't changed, but teen-age expressions have. The modern teen-ager has "a ball" or a "cherry time" or the dance "was riots."

Although the club itself is no longer a teen-ager, so to speak, its membership is for and by teen-agers — 6,000 of them.

Organized during the war year 1944 under sponsorship of the City Recreation Department, the club's first dance attracted some 65 teen-agers.

"The success of the club has been in the fact that it is run by the teen-agers, themselves," says Mrs. Doris Pierce, assistant recreation superintendent.

Mrs. Pierce and a small band of teen-agers spent "several months getting ready for the first club dance" in Antelope Park's Auld Pavilion.

Its 52-member council, representing the club members from the city's five high schools, plans all dances and other activities.

Pursued Egyptian Pilot Seeks Asylum In Israel

Jerusalem, Israel (UPI)—An Egyptian air force captain defected to Israel in his Czech-built Yak II training plane Sunday, closely pursued by two Egyptian Mig 17s.

The pilot landed at an Israeli air strip and the two United Arab Republic jets turned back before reaching the border when two Israeli jet fighters rose to challenge them.

The pilot was identified as Capt. Mahmoud Hilmi Abbas Hilmi, 26, a bachelor flight instructor at the Nile delta air force school at Bilbeis.

"Political Reasons"

He told Israeli guards who raced to the plane at Basr Base that "I want to give myself up." He told a news conference later he had decided to ask for asylum for "political reasons."

He also told the news conference that the U.A.R. planes apparently thought he was a "cadet who lost his way." The U.A.R. planes took off from El Arish on the Gaza Strip to try to intercept him.

Hilmi, sporting a mustache, wore a smartly cut gray flight uniform with a black shirt, the uniform he was wearing when he left Egypt.

First Time

It was the first time any Arab plane had defected to Israel. Observers said Hilmi probably chose the country because he could not fly anywhere else without being intercepted by the Egyptians.

Hilmi repeated his request to Israeli army officials for political asylum and said he had planned the escape for some time.

"I decided to come to Israel two weeks ago," he said. "I took some money and this morning explained from the Bilbeis base where I served as an instructor."

He said the flight took an hour and 20 minutes.

The swarthy Hilmi, who said he was trained in Czechoslovakia, appeared nervous before the battery of photographers and newsmen.

Nervous

The pilot, who has 200 hours of flying time behind him, said he deliberately chose the slow Yak because it had sufficient range and slow speed to enable him to pick a suitable landing area.

Hilmi was not ordered to land by the Israelis and said he was not afraid of being shot down by Israelis. He thanked base authorities for their "good treatment" since he landed.

Asked if he thought U.A.R. President Gamal Abdel Nasser was preparing war against Israel, Hilmi drew himself up and said, "I refuse to answer that question."

Ross To Seek GOP Post

Omaha (U)—Donald R. Ross of Omaha said he will run for re-election as Nebraska Republican national committeeman at the postprimary convention here June 1.

There had been rumors Ross might step down. Mentioned as possible successors were Richard Herman and Owen Cotton of Omaha.

Ross, Omaha attorney, has been GOP national committeeman since 1958. He was named at that time to fill the vacancy of the late T. H. Maenner, and was re-elected to a four-year term in 1960.

Ross, a native of Curtis, was mayor of Lexington, then served as U.S. district attorney for Nebraska before Debra and her playmate, Delaine Standert, 13, 3720 St. Paul, had the mouse in a small jar. They accidentally dropped the jar, breaking it, and in the excitement the mouse bit Debra on the left index finger.

Debra received a tetanus shot. The mouse? It was interned at the Humane Society.

Hoffa Arrives In Grand Style, But Off Schedule

Chattanooga, Tenn. (UPI)—Teamsters Union President Jimmy Hoffa, kissing babies and shaking hands like a candidate, arrived in a chartered plane Sunday night to be tried on charges of tampering with a jury.

Hoffa's trial begins Monday, and one of the Teamster chief's aides said the court would be asked to subpoena Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy as a witness.

Hoffa's blue and grey twin-engined plane touched down three hours late because of fierce headwinds. A crowd of 100 persons, mostly teamsters, had dwindled to about 50 in the long wait in cold weather.

"Bread, Butter"

He stepped off the plane to be greeted by cheers and big

Granddaddy Of Dilemmas

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

We fear that the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education has finally taken on a regional meeting that will be its undoing. Some 70 persons are to gather at the center in the middle of March for what is described as an assembly on the "population dilemma." Certainly, here is an assembly in which participants have bitten off more than they can chew. For one thing, the title really covers the waterfront as the population has an endless number of what might be called dilemmas.

Secondly, if it is really the dilemma of the population or dilemmas that are going to be discussed, there isn't any answer that will prove to be satisfactory. If you face a dilemma, you face a choice of things, all of which are equally distasteful. So, if the population constitutes a dilemma, then what is to be done about it since whatever is done is sure to be distasteful? Certainly, there are skeptics who would agree that the population is, indeed, a dilemma since it is in general and at all times an unsatisfactory thing.

All of us will agree now and then that the population is a dilemma because all of us now and then run into a part of that population that cannot be satisfied. There isn't any doubt that the young part of the population in your own home is a dilemma or constitutes one when it comes to watching TV in the evening.

There are those children who eat up the cartoons and then there are those children who eat up the cowboys and Indians. When both cartoons and cowboys and Indians are on during the same half hour, the family definitely has a dilemma. Whatever decision is made unpopular with some or the person making the decision has an unequally distasteful choice to make.

Dilemmas of this nature are virtually endless. Who, for instance, is going to get the left-over piece of pie for dessert and who will take the ice cream? If it were all ice cream or all pie, there would be no argument but if a choice is given, the issue has been drawn and will not be settled without charges of favoritism and perhaps a few tears of defeat. Again, to the person making the final decision, the choice between pie and ice cream is a dilemma. And it must be some kind of indictment of the human race when pie and ice cream can evolve into something so awful as a dilemma. We have always associated dilemmas with more terrible choices such as slow or quick death, honor or money or some other such fundamentally painful thing. It is sort of disheartening to learn that even faulty logic can indict pie and ice cream.

However, faulty logic can and does indict a lot of things and a lot of people so maybe we should not be too disturbed over it. At any rate, if you have not become too particular yourself, you can still enjoy either pie or ice cream whenever they come your way. Some dilemmas along this line are solved in a most simple way. In cleaning up odds and ends, the children of one family were offered canned pears, canned applesauce or cookies. Only one child could not make the decision and announced he would just have a little of each.

The population or people are a dilemma for one another in an almost endless variety of ways. Teachers are a dilemma for students since the more the students perform, the more is expected and demanded of them. Thus, it appears on the surface to be a losing proposition, despite the fact that this appearance will change at some later date.

Then, there are those people who cannot be pleased regardless of how a thing is done. There is the boss who is dedicated to the proposition that his employees are incapable of doing anything right and there are employees who are convinced that the boss is probably the most difficult person in the world to work for.

There are husbands and wives who can't win with their mates because they are wrong in whatever they do. If the husband approves of his neighbor's wife, he is unfaithful and if he doesn't, he is always against his wife's friends. If the wife makes the children stay home at night, she is too hard on them and if she lets them go out, she is too easy on them. If you buy some new clothes, you are a spendthrift and if you don't, you always look sloppy. Laugh at something and you never take things seriously enough but fail to laugh and you are a sourpuss.

There isn't any doubt that the "population dilemma" provides an ample subject of discussion for a four-day meeting. The biggest dilemma of all will probably be in the hands of the program chairman whose job it is to nail down an objective and the means of getting there. We suspect the "population dilemma" will be reduced to numbers but it offers an intriguing array of other possibilities.

No Winning For Losing

Our Hand Called

There have been two heartening developments recently in the Deep South.

One of them took place a few hours after Auburn's football team recognized and acquiesced in desegregation by meeting Nebraska in the Orange Bowl. The Cornhuskers were as many hued as calico.

Auburn followed that, on campus, by having its own state police protect the first Negro to be registered in the school. It made it plain it wanted no federal people around.

Still more recently the city of Montgomery, Alabama, formed a community group charged with arriving at a satisfactory settlement on local civil rights problems. It believes it can get the job done on a do-it-yourself basis.

Let us hope that this spirit is in the ascendancy. If it is then it is a reversal of attitude.

Federal intervention was made necessary in earlier instances because local authorities refused to honor the law. Federal representatives went in on a must basis. Had Arkansas and Mississippi done what state officials did in Auburn, Alabama, namely, observe the law there would have been no federal tours de force.

If the Deep South, which, understandably, is more emotionally involved in the question of civil rights, can bring itself to observing treatment of the issue, then the states outside the South owe it to the nation to take the initiative in their own way to clean their quite dirty houses in respect to the same matter.

Also Positive Action

Two Iowa congressmen, Sen. Jack Miller and Rep. James Brownell, have added their voices to the swelling chorus demanding federal action to reduce the volume of imported meat products.

They see no point in exporting prosperity when depressed prices are vexing the domestic meat industry.

The matter is of paramount interest here because Nebraska is one of the nation's great beef producing regions, all the way from range to packer. The problem is most poignant among the feeders.

There is some merit in this demand. Concurrently with it is a New York Times Asian economic review. It speaks of a new found boom in Australian agriculture. It states that Australia shipped $150 million worth of beef to the United States last year.

Imported beef comes from other countries than Australia. But if Australia, as friendly as we are, is rejoicing in unexpected wealth it seems it could give a little ground in behalf of U.S. producers without suffering.

But it would be short sighted to believe the whole answer will be found in curbing exports. There is an imbalance in prices within the industry itself, in which the feeder is largely the fall guy. That is subject to correction within the industry itself.

Moreover, the situation calls for more realistic laws in labelling and grading so that consumers can distinguish between cut rated imports and domestic fully fed products.

It is sound, too, to stress greater efforts to claim more of the American market for corn fed beef. These are positive actions in the true spirit of competitive enterprise.

The money was accumulated as a result of repayments made years ago on loans advanced under federal aid for farmers during the depression. However, Nebraska cannot, under its constitution, use the funds for the lending purpose for which they are being held.

Thus, it is only logical to seek a change at the federal level that would permit Nebraska to use the funds for a good cause. This, however, raises the question of what is a good cause.

The governor's proposal is that we engage in a comprehensive study of the problems of agriculture in the state. This would be a good idea only if Nebraska were dedicated to implementation of the study recommendations.

If the state has no intention of taking action based on the study, then it would be worthless to make the study. One cannot say in advance of a study whether it will definitely be followed or not but there can and should be an understanding of the state's intent in the matter.

Also, before spending the money in this way, it might be appropriate to determine if studies cannot already be made under existing federal rural rehabilitation programs. It might be wiser simply to have the federal law changed to permit use of the money as determined by the decision of state officials and approved by an appropriate federal agency. Then, if a study of agriculture were deemed advisable, it could be done but we would not be limited to this one alternative.

LBJ's Frugality Begins To Hurt

WASHINGTON — Those who have watched President Johnson work say that he's set a constant example of frugality.

The other day he remarked to a friend whom he had phoned in North Dakota: "My secretary didn't tell me you were out there or I wouldn't have wasted the phone charge."

For several days, his naval and Air Force aides have been standing outside his door wanting to talk to him about his new policy of getting along with only one military aide — Gen. Ted Clifton. However, Johnson doesn't want to argue the matter and hasn't seen them.

The Air Force and Navy are up in arms over the economy. Figure they now will lack a voice at the White House. Also the naval aide is Capt. Tazewell Shepard, son-in-law of Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala. Shepard is a good looking, not-too-bright clotheshorse whose relation to a distinguished senator hasn't hurt him a bit. The President, however, hasn't listened either to the Air Force or the Navy about this economy and Sen. Sparkman is too smart to intervene.

These are only token economies but they indicate the Johnson look around the White House.

Meanwhile the President has been studying the basic economy of the nation in preparation for his economic message to Congress. Dr. Walter Heller, his top economic adviser, has produced some very encouraging figures. They show:

That during the three years of the Kennedy administration, the Gross National Product has increased $100 billion or at a rate of 5½ per cent a year. This put the United States ahead of the Russian GNP, which three years ago was generally considered ahead of the USA.

Heller also reported that personal income was up last year 17 per cent, corporate profits were up 44 per cent, net income per farm during the last year was up 12 per cent; and industrial production up 23 per cent.

Residential construction topped $25 billion during 1963 and is still going strong. Dr. Heller reported to the President. He also laid on his desk a lot of other encouraging figures.

Chief sour note was the unemployment figure of around 5½ million, and the President plans to devote part of his economic message to Congress to this problem. He plans to emphasize a fairer distribution of economic growth among consumers, producers, employers, and workers, and especially equality of opportunity for everyone regardless of social standing, race, color, or creed.

Amazing Discovery, American Railroads

NEW YORK—The weather was vile. Birds were walking. The airplanes were locked snugly in their hangars... and I had to get from Washington to New York, felt trapped, marooned on the Greenland Ice Cap. Then I remembered. There's another way of getting to New York from Washington.

It's called the Pennsylvania Railroad. If you airplane buffs will just sit down for a moment, I'll describe the thrilling new way to get from one place to another.

There's this long string of cars, see? Like the kind you see in the store windows around Christmas time, but big, man, big. Up front is a big iron beetle they call a locomotive. On the Pennsy—as the heps call it for short—the locomotive is electric powered. A kind of crazy TV antenna reaches up from the beetle's back, touches the charged wire overhead, and that's what makes it go. Crazy, sure, but it works.

Well, the whole thing moves along on tracks. That's right, tracks. You walk up some steps into one of the cars and, right off, you see they've stolen something from the airlines. They've got seats running the length of the car. Nobody tells you where to sit. You just pick a spot and flop.

It's nice and warm in these cars, even when it isn't moving. And the company allows you to smoke even before the take-off. They even let you put your suitcase in the overhead rack, too. Guess you fellows know what a hard time any airline stewardess would give you if you tried something like that, eh?

Now, get set for the excitement. All of a sudden the whole string of cars—must have been a couple blocks long—began to move out of the old depot. I looked at my watch and was startled to see that the journey had begun at exactly 1:45. That was the announced time of departure and they came through! How about that! Nobody seemed surprised except me. I tried to tell a guy near me that this must be against the rules, or maybe even the Constitution. Planes mostly go out on time only when the operators get tipped off that you're going to be ten seconds late arriving at the gate. Right?

So, as soon as we started moving, I realized with a shock that I hadn't fastened my seat belt. The stewardess would be furious at me. But, get this, my seat didn't have a belt. Looking around wildly, I noticed that none of the other passengers were secured by a belt, either. Believe me, it's a frightening feeling, but we got off safely.

In time a kindly looking old guy in uniform came down the aisle, chatting with the customers. He resembled somebody's grandfather—Norman Rockwell's, let's say. He smiled and asked for my ticket. Tick-ets! There's another thing they've stolen from the airlines. But he was nice about my complaint. He took my money—they're underselling us, boys, in case you want to contact the FAA—and thanked me. Imagine that? I looked through a window that seemed as big as Macy's and Gimbels combined—after all those years of peeping out of plane windows—and beheld a wondrous sight: the United States of America. Or at least that part of it which stretches from Washington to New York.

THE MONTGOLFIER

Profiles In Science

Jacques Montgolfier (1745-99), pictured at right, and his brother, Joseph (1740-1810), were the sons of a paper manufacturer of Vidalon-les-Annois, a village in central France. They were inventive children, and one of their favorite "games" was to watch their father's paper sacks go up the chimney of the fireplace as the heat expanded the air inside.

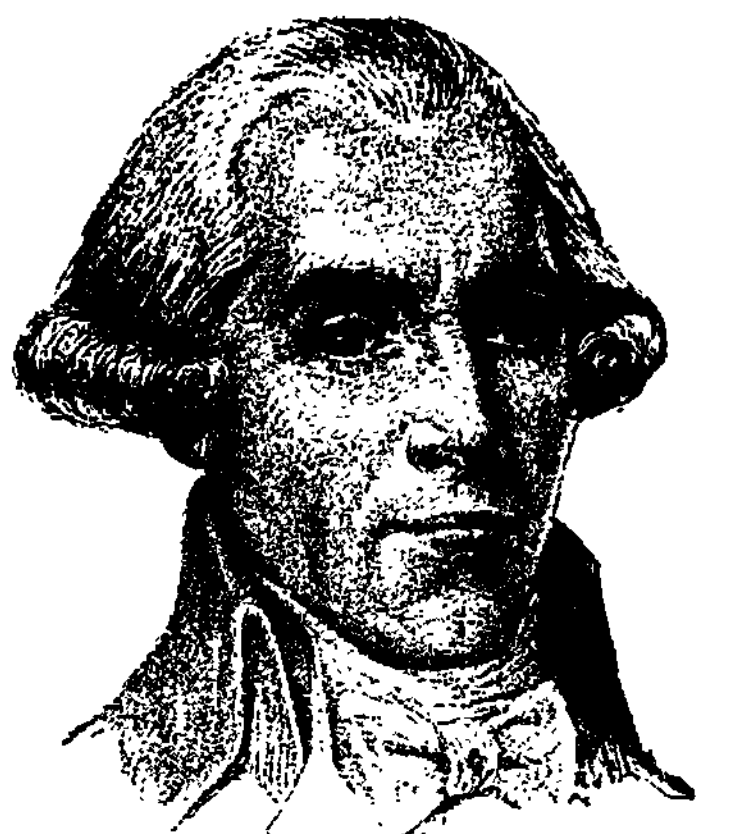

This interest became more than a game with the Montgolfiers. Although both studied mathematics, chemistry, physics and other sciences, they continued to experiment with larger and larger "sacks" made of very light paper from the Montgolfier factory.

In their experiments, they made balloons able to carry dogs and other animals high above the rooftops of Lyon, the nearest big city.

Later they invented a small furnace and grate that could be attached to the balloon under the narrow opening of the neck. The furnace kept the air hot and allowed much longer flights.

They dreamed and planned to send men on balloon flights, just as scientists of today are dreaming and planning to send men into space in rocket ships.

A friend of theirs, Francois de Rozier, volunteered to be the first man to go up in a Montgolfier balloon, but the king of France, Louis XVI—so conservative and disinterested in either politics or science that he eventually lost his head on the guillotine—refused to allow such a flight to be made from Paris. Jacques and Joseph wanted to conduct their great experiment from Paris so that the ascent would attract public notice and thus help them make further improvements in manned flight.

A friend of the king finally persuaded Louis to permit the flight, and on Nov. 21, 1783, De Rozier and another friend, Francois d'Arlandes, made an ascent in a paper and linen balloon.

This first balloon to carry human passengers was 70 ft. tall, 46 ft. across and was embellished with blue and gold fleurs de lis of the House of Bourbon and a giant monogram of the king. It had a cane basket with a parapet three feet tall, and underneath was suspended a grate for burning straw. The balloon stayed in the air almost half an hour, traveling eight miles and reaching an altitude of 3,000 ft., and in its trip across Paris was seen by thousands of excited people.

Benjamin Franklin was one of the most interested observers. It was on this occasion that he was asked, "What good is it?" He replied, "Of what use is a newborn baby?"

PIERRE J. HUSS

South Viet Nam A Continuing Issue

NEW YORK — The problem of South Viet Nam doggedly hangs on the political and military back of the United States like an old man of the sea. Like Cuba, it is certain to steam up heated controversy and offer campaign ammunition in the 1964 presidential campaigns.

A solution that would give satisfactory assurance that communist force directed either by Moscow or Peking or both will not prevail in any part of Southeast Asia has yet to be found. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, potential Republican candidate for the presidential nomination, is grimly sweating out his job and knocking heads together where and when necessary to create order out of the chaos he inherited and save South Viet Nam from being swallowed by the Red warlords.

A sample of the effect of the Lodge hand is the shake-up in South Viet Nam's ruling junta by which the country was placed virtually under the command of three senior generals. The young buck general Thon That Dinh, used by the seniors to pull off the coup that rubbed out the regime of President Diem, was given a polite shove away from central power. The shake-up left Maj. Gen. Duong Van Minh as chairman of the Military Revolutionary Council, and running the show with him are Maj. Gen. Tran Van Don and Maj. Gen. Le Van Kim.

However, neither the U.S. nor the South Viet Nam junta is out of the woods. Viet Cong forces infesting the jungle land are giving the U.S.-trained and directed Vietnamese army units a hard time. Military rule rarely puts the country on solid footing, or generates the people's confidence in their government. But no matter how one looks at it, government duly elected by the people and constituted along democratic principles seems far off, unless the triumvirate of generals decides suddenly that the time is propitious for turning the political reins over to a civilian administration, headed by a leader popular among the people and empowered with a program that will put the country on its feet and shatter the communist menace.

At the present time, a Vietnamese who may emerge some day as the popular civilian leader is in the United States, spending shoe-leather and persuasion in alerting high-level officials in Washington and prominent persons around the U.S. to the danger that South Viet Nam may yet be lost to the twin evils of communism and neutralism. He is Tran Van Tung, exiled by President Diem for opposing authoritarian rule based on the secret police, but of extensive "grass roots" following in all Viet Nam. A year ago he also went to Washington and warned the administration that corruption and the lack of democratic government in his country would spawn dire consequences. He was brushed aside as a disgruntled exile.

The very fact that his warning materialized to the letter has warmed up the political climate for him, coupled with the fact that Maj. Gen. Minh and he are friends. A junta sometimes sees the writing on the wall before it is too late, and acts to save itself from disaster by tossing the ball to a popular leader. That could bring Tran Van Tung suddenly into the picture. His views as such on the intricate Vietnamese situation are worth hearing. A few points are:

"The Vietnamese generals in charge now are dedicated and patriotic men. But these generals are unpolitical. If we exclude civilian rule and do not allow the people to choose their own leadership through a democratic process, then there is likely to be a repetition of the last nine years and possibly a throwback to the situation as it existed before Diem.

"It is necessary now for the army leaders to concentrate on the war against the communist guerrillas. Today we are entering into the political phase of the revolution. Authentic political leaders must emerge to complete the revolutionary cycle. In seeking these leaders, we must turn to Vietnamese nationalism. In it rests our traditional source of good government. Only here can we find the men who can lead South Viet Nam to its rightful place of prestige in Asia and the world."

Tran Van Tung cites three points in what he calls the essential foreign policy of Viet Nam:

"We must work together and cut out intrigue and rivalry among ourselves; we must fight together against the evil powers from outside; we must win together.

"In combating both communism and neutralism, we must strive for an alliance with all freedom-loving nations under the leadership of the United States to protect our mutual interests in the free world.

"At the same time this means alliance with all anti-communist Asiatic nations who adhere to the principles of SEATO."

Tran Van Tung warily stresses that there can be no "instant" democracy but that there must be gradual democratic reforms suitable to the temperament of the Vietnamese people. He warns as strongly against the quagmire of communism. He calls the neutralists "misguided philosophers" and says: "If neutralism is possible in India, Indonesia and Cambodia, then political, military and geographic considerations render it absolutely impossible in South Viet Nam. With a monolithic communist regime in the north, and an unsettled situation in the south, neutralization of South Viet Nam would be political suicide."

Mrs. Kennedy Weeps At Requiem For JFK

Boston (AP)—Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston begged again Sunday for God's mercy on the soul of John F. Kennedy. And as Mozart's mighty "Requiem" filled the great cathedral, tears rolled down the face of the beautiful woman who was once the nation's First Lady.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy sat in the first row of Holy Cross Cathedral as Cardinal Cushing sang the pontifical solemn requiem mass for the late President who was assassinated in Dallas, Tex., eight weeks ago.

In a setting rare for a Roman Catholic function, the Boston Symphony Orchestra and a chorus of 180 voices performed the Mozart masterpiece, "Requiem in D Minor." The Mozart mass itself is rarely sung at memorial functions, much less with the presence of a symphonic orchestra.

A spokesman for the Boston Symphony said it was the first time a requiem mass had ever been celebrated in the United States with a symphonic orchestra and only the second time in the world.

First in U.S.

The first time was in 1956, he said, when the 200th anniversary of Mozart's birth was observed in this fashion at St. Stephen's Church in Vienna, Austria.

"The genius of art and the genius of leadership are joined together in this single event," said the cardinal as his voice broke with emotion.

"Separated by centuries, these two men were touched by a creative instinct uncommon in any generation; both brought out of their youth a shining light which will illumine the ages; both were summoned to eternity at a moment which to mortals must seem untimely."

Mozart died at 35 before completing the Requiem.

Black Coat, Hat

Mrs. Kennedy, wearing a black cloth coat and a black fur hat, sat in a pew with the late President's mother, Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, and his brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, and his wife.

Mrs. Sargent Shriver, the late President's sister, sat behind Mrs. Kennedy.

She followed the mass with the printed program in her hands and the first tears streamed down her cheeks when the chorus sang the benediction of the mass—"Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord."

She enveloped her face with her hands as Cardinal Cushing raised the host, a moment when Catholics believe the wafer of bread becomes the body of Christ.

Kneels At Rail

Only members of the Kennedy family received Holy Communion. Mrs. Kennedy knelt at the middle of the altar railing and family members flanked her, but Cardinal Cushing gave her the small host first.

She dabbed at the rolling tears again near the end of the mass when the cardinal intoned the prayer:

"Absolve, O Lord, we entreat Thee, the soul of Thy servant John from every bond of sin, that he may be raised up in the glory of the Resurrection and live among thy saints and elect..."

After the mass, as the procession of clergy was leaving the cathedral, the cardinal stopped at Mrs. Kennedy's pew and escorted her into the sanctuary to meet Boston Symphony Conductor Erich Leinsdorf. It was Leinsdorf who selected the unfinished Mozart Requiem for the mass as "the unfinished work of a genius dedicated to the unfinished work of another genius."

THANKS . . . given by Mrs. Kennedy to Leinsdorf as Cardinal Cushing watches.

Drug Firms Skip Profit To Serve Some Patients

New York (UPI)—We all scream over the high cost of drugs jam-packed with chemical bullets to help wipe out a pesky virus giving us a sore throat or sniffly nose or red-rimmed eyes or aches all over.

The pain in the pocket book at the druggist's counter hurts, of course. But on occasion the pharmacist dispense drugs that no patient could afford—in case you didn't know it.

Who says so? The Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, a closely-knit group of people who make drugs.

Sell At A Loss

Sounds contrived. But they really do sell drugs that were developed at quite a cost—and sell at a loss!

Sample: Few of the estimated 10,000 patients undergoing brain surgery each year could afford a drug often vital in such operations—even if it were made available at cost.

The volume on the drug is so low that even the break-even price would be beyond the reach of most patients.

Yet — Hoffman-La Roche Inc., of Nutley, N.J., makes the important drug available for a few dollars per dose for those whose life might depend upon it.

"Public Service"

The firm, as other drug firms, considers such a drug a "public service" medicine — stemming from the fact that the drug that works under such circumstances helps a medical condition too rare to involve profit for the pill maker.

Other examples of drugs that never reach the mass market but help—without delivering profit to the maker—include a pill to help just one and a lipstick whose market value no two lips could afford: $500!

First, consider the drug

Lynda Bird And Roommate Transfer To Capital School

Washington (AP)—President Johnson's 19-year-old daughter, Lynda Bird, has enrolled for the spring term at George Washington University here along with a University of Texas roommate.

A White House spokesman said Sunday that Lynda has invited her roommate and close friend, Warrie Lynn Smith of San Antonio, to live at the White House while attending George Washington.

The two girls are sophomores and will be starting classes with the new term at George Washington on Feb. 3.

To Lend A Hand

Explaining the invitation to Miss Smith, a spokesman for the First Lady said Mrs. Johnson feels that some of the happiest friendships of a lifetime are made in college years and she believes that Lynda Bird should have the benefit of her friendship with Warrie Lynn although coming back to Washington to lend a hand to Mrs. Johnson in her role as First Lady.

Warrie Lynn, also 19, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warfield Smith. She has been Lynda's roommate for a year

Glenn Will Take Campaign To People

Columbus, Ohio (UPI)—Astronaut John H. Glenn, faced with the political prospect of unseating himself against him, said Sunday night he would take his campaign for the Senate to the people.

The famed spaceman, while still not talking politics in detail, said in an interview he planned a "short and sweet" campaign in the May 5 primary aimed "to the people who are the ones who do the voting."

Most of the state's Democratic leaders united behind Sen. Stephen Young whose job Glenn seeks as they swarmed into town for Monday's party convention to endorse candidates.

The peppery 74-year-old Young publicly ignored Glenn, making a speech without mentioning him at Marion Saturday night and hosting a dinner for newsmen Sunday night.

No Personal Criticism

Young has said he will make no personal criticism in the campaign of Glenn, who became a national hero as the first American to orbit the earth on Feb. 20, 1962.

The senator was confident that the voters would endorse his support of the Kennedy-Johnson programs in the May primary by nominating him for another term in the Senate.

Meanwhile, there were strong reports that an effort would be made at the convention to get former Gov. Michael V. Di Salle to be the candidate for congressman-at-large, an office now held by U.S. Rep. Robert Taft Jr. who is giving that up to run for the Senate.

Di Salle seemed mildly interested in running for Con-

Russian Fish Fall For Plastic Worms

Moscow (AP)—The Soviet chemical industry is producing plastic worms as fishing lures—and the fish are falling for the bait.

The newspaper Leninist Banner reported Sunday that a factory in suburban Moscow produced 50,000 worms last year. The worms proved so popular, the newspaper said, that the factory intends to produce 1,500,000 worms this year.

One fisherman, the paper reported, caught seven fish in five minutes with the same plastic worm.

Science Finds New Healing Substance That Promptly Stops Itching and Pain of Piles

New York, N. Y. (Special)—One of the most common afflictions is a condition known as "itching piles." It is most embarrassing for the victim during the day and especially aggravating at night.

No matter what you've used without results—here's good news. For the first time, science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to promptly stop the burning itch and pain. It actually shrinks hemorrhoids—without surgery. Medical science has proved this substance produces a remarkably effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In one hemorrhoid case after another "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. This improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of months! Among these sufferers were a wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' duration.

The secret is this new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institution. This substance is now obtainable in ointment or suppository form known as Preparation H®. Ask for Preparation H Suppositories (convenient to carry if away from home) or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Available at all drug counters.

Suburbia Seems To Be In A Gay Mood

There will be considerable interest this morning in the announcement made by Dr. and Mrs. Robert Johnston Stein of the engagement and approaching marriage of Dr. Stein's daughter, Maryellen, to Joel Edward McGreer, son of Dr. and Mrs. John Thomas McGreer.

The wedding is planned for Friday, May 1, and the ceremony will be solemnized in the chapel of St. Matthew's Church, Episcopal.

Miss Stein attended St. Mary's School Faribault, Minn., and was graduated from Doane College where she is a member of Gamma Phi Iota.

Mr. McGreer attended Florida Presbyterian College at St. Petersburg, and now is a student at the Brooks Institute of Photography at Santa Barbara, Calif.

COUNTRY CLUB TERRACE

Today, in our modern world of convenience, people take for granted the simple things which, upon removal, would completely disrupt their lives. And, the modern convenience we have in mind is the telephone.

This little gadget whereby one ring may mean a Saturday night party or that out-of-town guests may be arriving also poses some difficulties for homemakers and, on the other hand, pure delight for the younger generation. We have found, through our everyday contacts, that there is nothing that fascinates a child more than to answer the phone and strike up a conversation—especially when you tell him you are the Easter Bunny or Santa Claus.

Evidently the telephone was ringing in many suburban homes this week judging by the social activities that have taken place recently.

Entertaining out-of-town guests during the weekend were Country Club residents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Drullinger.

Their weekend visitors were Mrs. Drullinger's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. David Walker and their children David and Yvette, of Eustis.

Also entertaining an out-of-town guest last week were Mr. and Mrs. Mark A. Buchholz.

Arriving earlier last week was Mr. Buchholz' brother, Fred Buchholz of Sutherland. Mr. Buchholz returned to his home on Friday.

Another social event that will be taking place this week at the Buchholz family is the birthday party of their daughter, Margaret Ann, who will celebrate her sixth anniversary on Thursday, Jan. 23.

Margaret Ann's guest list will include several school and neighborhood friends.

We might mention at this time that former Country Club Terrace residents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bond and their children, Steve, Kathi and Scott, now are settled in their new home in Stromberg.

The Bond family departed Lincoln in December.

KIMBALLCREST

Kimballcrest housewives have found a perfect way to forget the normal humdrum of household duties—on Friday mornings—it's a rotation from week to week to several neighbors homes for a get-together coffee.

And the coffee hostess on Friday morning will be Mrs. Charles Connors.

Her guests were Mrs. Ross Lane, Mrs. George Jensen, Mrs. Norris Frankforter, Mrs. Les Livingston, Mrs. Nolan Gering, Mrs. Kenneth Gray, Mrs. Don Carlson, and Mrs. Dean Greening.

Party Was Farewell Courtesy

The members of the present board of the Lincoln branch of the American Association of University Women, and those who have served on the board during the past four years paid farewell courtesy to Mrs. John B. White at a luncheon on Saturday.

Dear Abby

Be Careful, Grandma

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our son and his wife live a few blocks from us and we are very friendly. They have a precious 22-month-old daughter who is being taught to kiss everyone in sight. If there are 25 people in the room, the child is dragged around to kiss each one "hello" and "goodbye." The other day my daughter-in-law stopped by my house for five minutes to borrow something. She had the baby with her and, before they left, she had the baby kiss me and also the television repair man who was there working on my set. I think it is fine to teach children affection, but shouldn't they be taught to save their kisses for special people? I would leave her alone and let her kiss me because she wanted to, not because she was told to. What do you think?

not educated. She spoke with a heavy accent, and I was ashamed to introduce her to any of my friends. I let her stay alone in my apartment day after day while I went to work. She busied herself cooking and baking (as only she could bake) for my freezer. She stayed a month. After my mother left, a girl in our office invited me to a Sunday brunch in honor of her visiting mother. Well, this girl's mother spoke the same kind of broken English my own mother spoke, but she was sweet and warm and friendly—like my own mother. Everyone loved her. I realized then how small and selfish I had been, and I promised myself that the NEXT time my mother came to visit me I would make it up to her. I never got the chance. She died in her sleep a few months later.

TOO ASHAMED TO SIGN MY NAME

DEAR GRANDMA: I think you are right. But be careful how you tell your daughter-in-law this, or it will be the kiss of death for your friendship.

C O N F I D E N T I A L TO "THAT MAN ON GOAT ISLAND": There is an old Arabian proverb which applies to your case. "There are three things that are impossible to hide. Smoke, love, and a man on a camel."

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Prenuptial Courtesy

Honoring a February bride-elect on Thursday evening were Mrs. Joseph Volpe, Miss Sharon Brock and Miss Nita Cashman, who were hostesses in courtesy to Miss Diane Haas.

During the informal party, which was held at the home of Mrs. Volpe, a miscellaneous shower was presented to Miss Haas, who will become the bride of Jerrold Copley on Saturday, Feb. 1.

The bidding:
Opening lead — king of clubs.

There is an interesting hand from the match between Great Britain and the United States in 1962.

When the American team held the North-South cards, Nail opened with an artificial bid of two clubs to show a game-going hand. The British West overcalled with four clubs in an effort to jam up the bidding, and, after North (Mathe) passed, East supported the idea by raising to five clubs.

Nail passed, knowing Mathe would double or name a suit, and then bid five spades over five diamonds. Mathe boldly contracted for six, which Nail made for a score of 1,430 points. The British could have taken a 700-point sacrifice by bidding seven clubs, but the slam had been reached in so uncertain a fashion that they thought there was a chance of defeating the contract.

When the British team held the North-South cards, the bidding went:

East South West North
Pass 2♣ 3♣ 4♣
5♣ 5♣ 6♣ 6♣

There was more to the bidding than meets the eye. What actually happened was that the British South bid five spades (a slam try) before East acted over North's four spade bid.

Since this was a bid out of turn, the bid was cancelled and the turn to call reverted to East, who then bid five clubs.

South was now on his own in the bidding, since North was barred for the rest of the auction as a result of the bid out of turn.

South could have changed his bid to six spades, but he decided to bid only five spades, and that became the contract. He made six for a score of 680 points, and the British lost 750 points on the deal.

Whether the American East-West pair would have sacrificed at seven clubs, had South chosen to jump to six spades, will never be known, but it does pose a question.

DAR Sponsors Annual Contest

It was a busy Saturday morning for a group of Lincoln high school students who participated in the annual Good Citizen essay contest of Deborah Avery and St. Leger Cowley Chapters, Daughters of the American Revolution.

The winners will be special guests of their sponsoring chapters in February, and their essays will be submitted in state DAR competition for an award of a $100 savings bond. Contest chairmen are Mrs. Nellye Knight, Deborah Avery Chapter, and Mrs. Henry M. Cox, St. Leger Cowley Chapter.

Why Grow Old

Some Things Men Wish Women Wouldn't Do

Josephine Lowman

I have been conducting a small survey, questioning some of the men I know about which feminine characteristics attract them and which repel them. While I was given many different answers, a few of them occurred over and over again. These must indicate a more or less universal feeling among men. Today I will give you a few of these with which to test your man-appeal.

1. Men like women who are good company, vivacious and alive, but they dislike the woman who is the life of the party in a loud way. She makes them feel uncomfortable.

2. Men are greatly affected by voices. A high or tense and screechy or overloud voice makes them irritable. They love a soft, musical, feminine voice.

3. I did not find a single man who really thinks that slacks are attractive for the ladies.

4. A man is afraid of a woman who is too possessive. He feels smothered and clings to his independence.

5. A man is suspicious of women who talk about other women.

6. Regardless of what some of the books on manners say, a man likes to be told by his date that she enjoyed his companionship and the entertainment he planned for the evening. After all, men are human and are pleased by appreciation just like anyone else.

7. Men do not like makeup which is too garish or obvious.

8. Few men like the clinging vine type, but practically all of them like to be allowed to protect and extend small courtesies to the woman they are with. It embarrasses them if she lugs her own suitcases and doesn't wait for them to pull out chairs and open doors for her, or acts in other completely independent ways.

9. Most men dislike extremely long fingernails, especially if they are painted red.

10. Men like, most of all, the woman who makes them comfortable, the one with whom they feel at ease and without strain. They are very susceptible to the woman who is truly interested in them and their happiness and comfort, and shows it. But then, this really applies to everyone.

I could only interview a few men, but many men read my column. This is your chance to express your opinions. Let me know what you think and I will print some of your letters, without using your name of course.

Income Tax

Proposed Changes In Tax Laws Won't Affect Most 1963 Returns

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of five stories offering tips on your 1963 income tax return.)

By ADREN COOPER
Associated Press Staff Writer

Proposed changes in the tax laws have been popping into the headlines for months, but even if enacted by Congress they will have no effect on the income tax return most taxpayers must prepare between now and April 15.

In reporting income received in 1963, most taxpayers can follow the same procedures they used last year.

The changes involve somewhat stricter rules on reporting business and employee expenses, and provision for a child care deduction by a wife who has been deserted by her husband.

A good place to start on your income tax is a compilation of income you received in 1963.

If you are an employee, most of your income probably came from wages, salaries and commissions. Ordinarily, the total will be listed on the small W-2 form supplied by your employer.

Must Be Reported

Here are some other types of income which must be reported:

Almost all interest, whether it is paid on corporate bonds, loans, bank accounts or accounts with savings and loan associations; fees; bonuses; income from estates and trusts; military pay for active duty or reserve training; gambling winnings; severance pay; most contest prizes; alimony; most strike benefits.

In most cases these payments are fully taxable.

Income from the sale or exchange of property, such as stock or real estate, is called capital gains and is taxed at a lower rate if held for longer than six months. Usually, you subtract any losses from the gains—but the rules in this category are pretty complicated.

Here are other examples of income which are eligible for specialized treatment:

Royalties from patents or copyrights; royalties from oil or other mineral-producing property; rent; business profits; self-employment income; farm income; income from partnerships; dividends on stock.

Not Taxable

The following types of income are not taxable and do not have to be reported:

Federal and state social security benefits; veterans administration benefits to veterans and their families & gifts; inheritances; disability payments to former members of the armed forces; interest on state and municipal bonds; substance, uniform and quarters allowances for military men; government unemployment compensation; workmen's compensation; most scholarships and fellowships; public assistance payments to the blind; life insurance payments; dividends on stock which are paid in the form of additional stock.

Up to $100 per week in sick pay is tax free.

If you have been in the habit of disregarding relatively small amounts received as interest on a savings account, or dividends from corporate stock, it might be worth noting that the law now requires corporations, banks and other financial institutions to report to the internal revenue service any payments of dividends or interest which are $10 or more a year.

And many of these reports from businesses will be checked by computer against individual returns.

After you have determined the type and total of your income you are in a position to decide what type of return to file: or, perhaps you'll discover you are not required to file.

(Next: Which form to use.)

Randy'll Help Cowboy Carl Get To Texas

Onamia, Minn. (AP)—An amiable Hereford bull named Randy and cowboy Carl Swanson plan a trip to Texas soon, with Randy furnishing the transportation.

Swanson, 40, said Friday he plans to ride the bull in an especially designed saddle as a means of promoting the sale of beef.

"People aren't beef conscious. They don't know good beef when they see it," Swanson says.

Once At Greeley

A onetime cowboy at Greeley, Neb., Swanson plans to take his little dog Blondie along, riding atop the Hereford with him.

Thus far, Iowa officials have discouraged a trip through that state for traffic safety reasons. But South Dakota has issued an open invitation, so Swanson probably will head that way.

He hasn't picked a starting date, waiting out the winter weather. Swanson figures eight miles a day will keep the 3-year-old bull in good shape.

28 Mid-Year Grads At Chadron College

Chadron, UPI)—Twenty-eight students at Chadron State College are scheduled to graduate at the end of the current semester, according to Registrar A. E. Kent.

According to college policy and tradition, the 28 will return in June for the formal graduation ceremonies.

—WIND, RAIN TORMENT GOLFERS— Lema's 76 Wins Crosby Tourney

Pebble Beach, Calif. (AP) — elements for the $5,800 top prize. The 29-year-old from San Leandro, Calif., who tied for second at San Diego last week, ordered champagne cooled even as he left the first tee. He served it to the press after winning his usual victory symbol.

Balding Fades
Canadian Al Balding started the final round deadlocked with Lema for the lead at 208 and then went nine over par on his first nine holes, finishing with an 88 and 296.

His effort was worth just $95, the lowest money payoff paid in the individual provision.

Bo Winger of Las Vegas, Nev., and Gay Brewer of Dallas, Tex., finished three strokes behind the winner at 287. Winger shot a 75 and Brewer 73.

Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga., and Al Geiberger of Carlton Oaks, Calif., each shot 73 to tie for fourth place at even-par 288.

TIP OF THE HAT . . . from Lema after he holed birdie putt on No. 5.

—NASCAR'S TOP DRIVER— Weatherly Dies In Riverside Mishap

Riverside, Calif. (AP) — Joe Weatherly of Norfolk, Va., was killed Sunday when his 1964 Mercury went into a skid and hit a retaining wall during the 500-mile Riverside road race for stock cars.

Weatherly, 41, was dead on arrival at Riverside Community Hospital.

Track officials said the steering wheel had to be removed before he could be taken from the car.

Weatherly was top-ranking NASCAR driver in the Grand National circuit in 1963 for the second year in a row. He won three firsts out of 3 starts and placed in the top five spots 20 times.

2nd In Pro-Am
Lema collected a $5,800 winner's check while he and his partner, Father John Durkin, an Army chaplain, took second in the pro-amateur team event with a best ball 259. That meant another $3,000 for Champagne Tony, the fourth leading money winner on the PGA tour a year ago.

Winning the team honors were Mike Fetchick and his amateur partner, Charley Seaver of Fresno, Calif., who had a 69 and 258 total. That brought $4,000 for Fetchick.

Lema appeared enroute to a runaway when he slumped at the seventh hole and went five over par on the next four holes.

Clinched Win
Finally settling down, he assured victory with a birdie at the 14th. His second shot on the 55-yard layout landed in a trap. He blasted out within inches of the cup for his birdie.

On the 17th, a killer par 3 on which Arnold Palmer took a nine Saturday, Lema decided to play safe and was content with a four. He and Balding both had fives on the Sea Cliff hole Saturday.

Palmer and Jack Nicklaus weren't around for the nationally televised final—they hadn't made the cutoff of 220 or better after the third round.

"I was scared all the way," Lema declared. "After a good start, I make some mistakes that hurt me. I'm really glad it is over. I never would have thought it possible I could shoot a 76 and win the Crosby at Pebble Beach."

Balding was frustrated. He hit into a bunker on the second hole and carded his second bogey at the fourth when the wind carried his ball into a trap.

Then came another of those devastating par 3's, the seventh and Balding carded a triple bogey. He hit his first shot into the breaking ocean waves and the second into a trap.

On the eighth he knocked a ball over a cliff and exclaimed in disgust, "I may never finish this thing . . . I just may never finish."

He eventually did and his 88 failed to be tops for the day. Bob Harrison, a pro from Palm Desert, Calif., posted an even 100 after recording a dozen strokes on each of two holes.

Not one of the 63 golfers in the final round could match the par 72 for this 6,747-yard layout.

Weatherly won $58,110 racing in 1963. He finished seventh in the Golden State 400-mile stock car race last fall. Weatherly leaves a widow.

In 1962 he won the NASCAR championship for late model stock cars and nine years before was champion of the modified track division of NASCAR.

He was a frequent winner in Daytona Beach, Fla., races. Among his triumphs there were the 100-mile Grand National Stock Car race and the race of champions within five days in 1961 and the 100-mile twin stock car race in 1962.

Bud Moore of Spartanburg, S.C., owner of Weatherly's car, said the impact must have thrown Weatherly's head against the wall when the car hit. Said Moore:

"This is a terrible tragedy."

In a pre-race interview, Weatherly, speaking of safety equipment, said he did not use a shoulder harness.

West Roars Back For 27-24 All-Star Victory

... LAST-SECOND TD DECIDES AFL TILT

San Diego, Calif. (AP) — Quarterback Cotton Davidson of the Oakland Raiders connected with his pass catching teammate, Art Powell, on a 25-yard scoring strike with 43 seconds remaining to give the West a 27-24 triumph over the East in the American Football League's annual All-Star game Sunday.

Trailing 24-3 at the half as the East's Babe Parilli of Boston put on a brilliant passing show, the West rushed back into contention in the third quarter on sparkling long range plays that produced two touchdowns and closed the margin to 24-17.

Keith Lincoln of the San Diego Chargers electrified the 20,016 fans in Balboa Stadium, as well as his trailing West teammates, with a spectacular 64-yard touchdown run.

Tension Mounted
Then Tobin Rote, the West's starting quarterback from the champion Chargers, hit teammate Lance Alworth with a 51-yard pass to the East four. Paul Lowe took it on and in the tension began to mount.

The West's Jim Fraser kicked a 12-yard field goal early in the fourth to make it 24-20, and the aroused West defense continued to hold Parilli, Larry Garron, Cookie Gilchrist and the East offense scoreless throughout the final two quarters.

With five minutes to go and Davidson at the controls, the West moved from midfield deeper and deeper into the East's territory — and the clock was ticking away.

East Held
A Davidson-to-Alworth pass for 15 took the ball to the two, and for five plays—including an East offside—the rugged East held and then took possession of the ball. The time was 1:29 to go.

The West defense forced the East to punt, and the West took over on the East 43.

Davidson, ever harassed by the rushing East, shot short throws to Alworth, to Powell—and then the big one, an arching throw that found Powell virtually alone but running full speed into the left corner of the end zone.

Lincoln, the star of San Diego's championship victory over Boston two weeks ago, was voted the most valuable player on offense, and Archie Matsos of Oakland the outstanding defensive player, with one key pass interception to his credit.

Gilchrist, the power man of the East's attack, was well bottled up. He had a net 33 yards rushing when it was over 20 more in the air.

—COLUMBUS JUMPS TO SIXTH SPOT— Pacesetters Prep, Bellevue Face Formidable Opponents

By DON FORSYTHE
Prep Sports Writer
Creighton Prep and Bellevue, unbeaten Class A powers who don't meet until Feb. 7, face possible stumbling blocks as they take to the road this week.

Prep, riding an 11-game winning streak, invades fourth-ranked Omaha Westside Friday night.

The Junior Jays already hold one win over Westside, having won a 67-57 contest in the Intercity tourney. Six Straight

But since that time the Warriors have reeled off six straight wins — the latest a 79-70 win over highly-regarded Beatrice at Beatrice.

Bellevue, hot on the heels of Prep for the top spot in the ratings, puts its 8-0 mark on the line as it visits Lincoln South.

The Knights have only a 4-4 record, but their four setbacks have been by a total of only nine points. They should offer Bellevue its toughest test since the Chieftains nipped Boys Town.

Lower Shuffle
Only changes in the ratings this week take place in the second division.

Columbus, leader of the Big Ten race and loser only to Westside, climbs to the No. 6 spot.

Lincoln High, Northeast, Plus X and Beatrice each drop one notch to make room for Columbus.

Plus X, sailing smoothly against Class B foes, risks its six-game winning streak at Beatrice Friday.

The Thunderbolts have lost only to Bellevue, their lone game against a Nebraska Class A foe.

Beatrice, loser to South-east in its season opener, will be attempting to start another winning streak after having a seven-game skein snapped by Westside.

Nebraska Prep Ratings

School Regents End Indecision

... NO WORD ON AD

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Gomer Jones, 49-year-old longtime assistant coach, was named head football coach Sunday at Oklahoma succeeding Bud Wilkinson.

No decision was made at Sunday's meeting concerning the athletic directorship, but it apparently will go to Jones.

University regents ended a week of indecision Sunday and unanimously accepted the recommendation of the school's athletic council that Jones be hired.

At a meeting with newsmen, Jones, speaking in a voice barely audible because of laryngitis, said he was happy that the regents had appointed him and thanked those who had supported him for the job.

Backed Jones
Wilkinson, who has said he is considering entering politics, strongly recommended Jones as his successor when he resigned as coach. Wilkinson resigned as athletic director because of what he termed "political maneuvering" by some regents that was causing a delay in naming a successor.

Wilkinson's resignation was accepted formerly by the regents at the beginning of Sunday's meeting.

Then the regents met behind closed doors for more than six hours before announcing Jones' selection.

Three Others
The regents also interviewed three other assistant coaches before making the decision. They were Buck McPhail, backfield coach at Illinois; Sam Boghosian, line coach at UCLA; and Mike Corgan, backfield coach at Nebraska.

The four assistants were the only prospects who responded favorably to about 20 feelers sent out by regents.

Wilkinson molded a 145-29-4 record in his 17 years at Oklahoma. Jones was his top assistant all that time.

From Nebraska
Jones, a former Ohio State center, came to OU from Nebraska when Wilkinson was named to succeed the late Jim Tatum as head coach.

Jones developed nine All-America linemen at Oklahoma.

Jones has been a fixture at Norman since coming here in 1947. He had been offered several head coaching jobs, but always turned them down.

Jones said the length and terms of his contract would be decided in meetings with the Athletic Council.

After the quick session with newsmen, Jones hurried home for his first staff meeting.

When Wilkinson resigned, he recommended quick appointment of a successor so that the school's recruiting would not suffer.

Jones said recruiting is not far behind at present.

"The coaches have been doing a fine job keeping after it," Jones said. "We had 14 boys in this weekend, but it's been pretty hard because we didn't know who was going to be head coach."

In accepting Wilkinson's resignation, the regents issued a statement saying the action was taken "with sincere regret and with knowledge that no one has contributed more to the status and prestige to the state of Oklahoma and especially to the University of Oklahoma."

CANAL WOES PROMPT PGA TO CANCEL PANAMA OPEN

Pebble Beach, Fla. (AP) — The Professional Golfers' Association canceled the 1964 Panama Open Sunday because of the anti-American feeling in Panama and strained relations between that country and the United States.

"I regret that this decision is necessary," said tournament manager Jim Gaultin, "but I feel that in view of troubled conditions in Panama, I have no alternative. We certainly hope to be able to resume the Panama Open in 1965. It's a fine tournament."

Cancellation of the $11,000 event will not affect the balance of the PGA's Caribbean tour slate, Gaultin said.

"The tour will start a week later," he explained, "with the 60-odd players flying from Miami to Maracaibo Feb. 10 or 11. We are revising traveling arrangements now."

The Maracaibo Open will be held Feb. 13-16. It will be followed by the Caracas Open Feb. 20-23, the Los Lagartos International in Bogota, Colombia, Feb. 27-March 1 and the Puerto Rico Open March 5-8.

Among "name" players competing on the 1964 Caribbean tour are Art Wall, Jr., winner of the recent San Diego Open; George Knudson, Jim Ferrer, Don Whitt, British Ryder Cupper Harry Weetman, Spain's Ramon Sota and South Africa's Retief Waltman.

Olympics Site Lacking 2 Items: Snow, People

GAMES OPEN IN NINE DAYS

Innsbruck, Austria (AP) — If Charles O. Finley, the wandering owner of the baseball Athletics, owned the Winter Olympics he would probably try to move them to Kansas City. There's more snow there.

In fact, there is more snow right now in, say, Richmond, Va., than in Innsbruck, where the Olympics open in nine more days.

It's getting to the point where the storekeepers in this Alpine City are wondering if they are going to be able to sell all those Olympic souvenir cigarette lighters that were made in Japan.

Flag Raiser Sails Away

... HE'S 'NOT RESPONSIBLE' FOR RUCKUS

Cristobal, Canal Zone (UPI) — Jamse Jenkins, 17, one of the student leaders in the flag incident which triggered bloody border clashes between U.S. soldiers and Panamanians, sailed Sunday for the United States and voluntary exile.

The high school student left aboard the S. S. Cristobal for New Orleans where the ship is due Thursday. His family had received threatening telephone calls blaming him for the rioting.

Young Jenkins left with relations between the United States and Panama a shambles and the future of the vital Panama Canal in doubt.

He said he and his classmates were not responsible. No Regrets

Young Jenkins said he had "nothing to be ashamed of" and that he had no regrets that he was leaving the Canal Zone where he has lived with his family for the past 15 years. He was born in New London, Conn.

The boy's father, I. L. Jenkins, spoke calmly and openly to newsmen at the station, but his grandmother and mother were obviously distraught at the presence of photographers and reporters.

Young Jenkins said the sole purpose of Balboa High School students "was to see to it that our flag was allowed to fly at our school. We did not even think of the Panamanian flag."

American flags were removed from most Canal Zone schools several months ago at the direction of Canal Zone Gov. Robert Fleming. The United States and Panama earlier had agreed that whenever the American flag was flown officially in the zone the Panamanian flag would fly alongside of it.

The governor said, however, that because of the cost of erecting second flagpoles, no flags would fly at the schools.

Defied Orders

Jenkins and other students at Balboa High defied the governor's order. They hoisted an American flag at the school, locked the lanyards and took up an around-the-clock vigil to prevent the flag from being removed.

After the rioting, Canal Zone officials quickly erected two new flagpoles at the high school and ordered that both the American and Panamanian flags would henceforth be flown at Canal Zone schools.

Asked if he had any regrets over the flag incident and subsequent rioting, Jenkins declared: "The main thing is we have our American flag flying again at our school."

"Don't Like It"

"I don't like the Panamanian flag flying alongside it but it's the law and there is nothing to do but accept it," Jenkins said.

He said the rioting was "not caused by the flag incident. It was just a good excuse."

Jenkins Sr. said he was quite proud of his son.

SMALL HAND FOR LBJ

President Johnson paused Sunday to clasp the hand of one of the children who surrounded him after he attended services at the old Methodist Church in Thurmond, Md. Among those who shook the presidential hand was the small child at bottom center who was almost hidden by outstretched hands.

Russia Invites Nehru To Recuperate There

New Delhi (UPI)—The Indian government announced Sunday night that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev has invited ailing Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru to come to Russia to rest and recuperate from his paralytic stroke.

Doctors attending the 74-year-old Indian leader were not expected to approve such a trip since they have ordered a month's rest.

It was reported Saturday that the stroke has left Nehru a "hemiplegic," partially paralyzed in his left side.

Relayed By Envoy

Khrushchev's invitation was relayed to New Delhi from Moscow.

The Indian ambassador in Moscow, the government announcement gave no details of the invitation or India's reaction to it.

A medical bulletin issued Saturday by doctors attending Nehru said he continues to show improvement and the latest examination confirmed "previously expressed opinions" about his condition.

Nehru was stricken two weeks ago while attending a meeting of India's ruling Congress Party in Bhubaneswar. He returned to New Delhi a week ago and has been confined to residence.

Practice Ordered

Intimate friends of Nehru said doctors have ordered him to practice lifting a spoon with his left hand to strengthen the weakened side. They said he has been able to lift it only a few inches.

The medical bulletin did not spell out the "previous expressed opinions," but they have made it clear that Nehru's stroke was serious and that it will incapacitate him for an indefinite period. It was reported at the time of his illness that Nehru was suffering from high blood pressure.

He has not been seen in public since his arrival here which was accompanied by utmost secrecy. Those who did manage to see him, however, said he was wan.

Several Communist leaders in Europe have traveled to the Soviet Union to recover from illnesses. They include Walter Ulbricht of East Germany and Janos Kadar of Hungary. Maurice Thorez, French Communist chief, spent a year in Moscow recovering from a stroke, and Mexican painter Diego Rivera underwent a successful cancer operation there.

HERE IN LINCOLN

Despite overcast skies, a large crowd turned out Sunday afternoon for the dedication program of Pound and Cather Student Resident Halls on the University of Nebraska campus.

Among the speakers at the ceremonies were Carolyn Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Johnson of Laurel, president of Pound Hall, and Gary Peirce of Ashland, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. I. Peirce. Gary is president of Cather Hall.

Presiding at the dedication and open house was G. Robert Ross, vice chancellor of student affairs. He said both Miss Cather and Miss Pound showed a surprising amount of interest and ability. "These characteristics," he said, "are reflected in these halls today."

The Twin Towers have combined facilities for some 950 students.

Ross pointed out that "today we must learn more in a shorter period of time" He said the two buildings "were designed for this purpose... not only to learn in the sense of subject matter, but also to learn to work and live with others and to learn about oneself."

Ross added that the facilities were financed with revenue bonds, and thus, in effect, were being built by the students.

COPE Asks FCC To Label Doctors' Show 'Political'

The Lincoln-Lancaster Committee on Political Education (COPE) has asked the Federal Communications Commission to force the Lancaster County Medical Society or KOLN-TV to label the doctors' television program political advertising.

Reason for the telegraphed spokesman Vernon D. Allen, Lincoln Central Labor Union president, is the statement made on the program urging the audience to "write a letter to Sen. Roman Hruska, Sen. Carl Curtis, or Rep. Ralph Beermann (First District) or Rep. David Martin (Third District)" telling them to favor the Kerr-Mills bill and oppose the King-Anderson Medicare bill.

"The purpose of the program is to influence political legislation," the COPE wire said. It added:

"The program will run an additional 11 weeks. This show is sponsored allegedly as a public service program."

Nikita Rents Rooms

Copenhagen (UPI)—The Danish government has rented all 475 rooms in Copenhagen's Royal Hotel for the June stay there of Soviet Premier Khrushchev. He and his party will get the 100 rooms at the top.

Klansmen, Negroes Brawl

... IN ATLANTA RACE MELEE

Atlanta (AP)—Ten armed Ku Klux Klansmen entered a segregated restaurant while Negroes picketed outside, touching off a brawling melee and the worst racial incident in Atlanta in months.

Twenty-four persons were arrested outside the restaurant Saturday night, and 49 more were arrested a few hours later outside the city jail where they had gone to protest the earlier arrests.

MAN HELD IN FATAL STABBING

Dakota City (AP)—A 49-year-old Waterbury man was in custody here Sunday for investigation in connection with the stabbing death of Thomas James Quinn, 24, also of Waterbury.

Sheriff Harold Neibuhr said Quinn died late Saturday at a Sioux City hospital of a stab wound.

He said doctors told him the wound had been made with a sharp instrument which penetrated the left side of the neck just below the ear.

Neibuhr said his investigation showed that Quinn and the man held had argued Saturday night at a tavern in Willis. He said Quinn apparently was stabbed following the argument.

Neibuhr said no charges had been filed as yet and the investigation was continuing.

Following the stabbing, Quinn was treated at a doctor's office at Jackson and then transferred by ambulance to the Sioux City hospital. He died a short time after entering the hospital.

Trials for all 73 were scheduled for Municipal Court Monday.

Elsewhere in the South, a white youth was convicted of second degree manslaughter in the shooting of a Negro boy at Birmingham, Ala., and about 20 crosses were burned in Baton Rouge, La., in what one source said was a revival of Ku Klux Klan activity.

7-Month Sentence

At Birmingham, Larry Joe Sims, 16, was convicted Saturday of second degree manslaughter in the Sept. 15 shooting of a 13-year-old Negro, Virgil Ware. The jury fixed Sims' sentence at seven months in the county jail.

In Baton Rouge, an anonymous caller told The Morning Advocate the burning crosses signalled a reactivation of the Klan in that area. The caller said 100 crosses would be burned.

Crosses were burned in a dozen or more Louisiana cities last September, including one on the state capitol grounds at Baton Rouge.

At Washington, the Civil Rights Commission said federal compulsion probably is inevitable to breach barriers that continue to bar most non-whites from skilled crafts and jobs.

Not Enough

The commission said that a only meager increases in Negro and minority apprenticeships and employment have resulted from intensified government prodding, voluntary understandings with industry and civil rights pressures. It said voluntary relationships were not enough.

Cabbie Stabbed With Ice Pick

Omaha (UPI)—An Omaha taxicab driver, the victim of an early morning robbery, received a stab wound in the upper right shoulder from an ice pick-wielding assailant Sunday.

The victim was identified as 64-year-old Floyd Haight who was listed in "fairly good" condition at Methodist Hospital here. A spokesman at the hospital said the driver also sustained cuts about the mouth.

Authorities investigating the accident said an undetermined amount of cash was taken from the victim.

AF Chooses Lincolnite To Visit Europe

Col. R. Morgan Batten Jr. of 2940 Georgian Court has been selected by the Air Force to participate in a special staff visit to observe USAF operations in Europe, it was learned Sunday.

The Nebraskaan and eight other officers of the Air Reserve Forces will leave Washington, D.C., on Feb. 7.

They will visit major headquarters and representative Air Force bases in France, Germany and Great Britain. The group will return Feb. 22.

The tour will include briefings at North Atlantic Treaty Organization headquarters, Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe, U.S. Air Forces in Europe and at fighter, bomber, missile and transport bases. It also will include one allied NATO base and a visit to Berlin.

Col. Batten's reserve assignment is deputy chief of staff of the Nebraska Air National Guard in civilian life, he is a real estate broker.

Death Of Omaha Woman Ruled As Traffic Fatality

Omaha — The death of Mrs. Margaret Orent, 59, of Omaha was added to the state's highway fatality list following an autopsy.

Acting Coroner George Sullivan said the autopsy showed the Omaha woman had suffered a ruptured aorta and other internal injuries. She was injured in a traffic accident Jan. 11 and died in a hospital last Friday.

She was injured when a car, driven by her son, struck a power pole.

Aurora Girl, 17, Victim Of Crash On Gravel Road

Aurora (AP)—A 17-year-old senior at Aurora High School, Carol Skinner, was killed Sunday afternoon in a one-car accident on a gravel road southwest of Aurora.

The State Safety Patrol said the car in which she was riding apparently went out of control and flipped end over end.

The driver, Patty Pitman, about 17, of Aurora, was treated at a doctor's office and released.

Overhead Lights At 25th, O Torn Down By Truck

An Air Force truck carrying a fork lift tore down the overhead signal lights at 25th and O Sunday morning, police reported.

Roy C. Bunday, 24, of the 818th Transportation Squadron at Lincoln Air Force Base, told officer C. F. Keech he was not aware that the lights were brought down by the load on his truck.

Police reported the damage to the lights at nearly $1,000.

Chou To Pakistan

Karachi, Pakistan (AP)—Red China's Premier Chou En-lai will visit Pakistan for one week beginning Feb. 18 on the way back to Peking from his Africa tour, official sources here revealed.

POSTCARD

It now being five years since I proved I could drive a car—(How tempus fugit!)—we are off on a brisk and bouncing day to the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Biggest State with the most automobiles, a crash a minute. Crunch!

This is an impressive ceremony. When the State of California affirms your privilege to hunt three times around the block for a parking space. And to tell the officer:

"I didn't see the light, see?" I gave my square monicker and my correct address.

I swore I had never had fainting fits, been denied a license in any other state and had never had a nervous breakdown. Why do I swing on chandeliers? It is part of my yoga course.

The absolute essence of this examination is a set of questions, printed on a half a yard of paper. Both sides.

"You are in the right hand lane, making a left hand turn. You should—

1—Close your eyes, grit your teeth and swing the wheel hard left.

2—Let trucks go through but nuts to those small foreign cars. Who do they think they are anyway?

3—Pull to the nearest curb and go get a drink.

These questions go on endlessly. You check the correct answer.

If you miss six or more, you have something dreadful done to you. Like you have to wait six months and study. Or they take you in a side room and torture you.

Anyway, you must not miss six. And this hazard is enough to make you forget everything that is cool and logical.

The state thumb prints you. Takes your picture, too, these skeptical days.

It is no easy job for the examiners and the Motor Vehicle Department.

The Department is up to the door handles issuing 1964 license plates. Thousands of people are busy complaining that they did not get the plates they asked for—the ones with their telephone numbers. Or their dog's first name.

All of the complaining people know Governor Pat Brown personally and have told the license plate people about this friendship.

They are going to get the license plate man fired if it is the last thing they do.

Back at the perspiring desk, we are all clutching the ball points. Peeking over somebody's shoulder like a cribbing schoolboy.
